THE CHAMPION MIXED PAINT

Sold by L. TAGGART has no superior.

Fourteen years ago I painted my house with these paints and am now, or the first time since, repainting it. H. L. Smith, the painter, says he never knew of a house in better condition for painting after having stood so long.

A gentleman, whose name I will not mention, living in our town, painted his house thirteen years ago, with these paints and he has engaged some paints to repaint, saying that he would have no other.

Dr. Heilman will also testify as to the merits of these paints. County jail painted four years ago. John Lind's two houses painted two years ago and many others, all speak for the virtue and staying qualities of these paints, and is better evidence than any man's word. Look at them; then buy the Champion paints and paint your house and be happy.

Also paper your house with the elegant wall paper at Taggart's and be doubly happy.

The Big Circus Came.

Robinson's combined shows arrived in Emporium some time Sunday night, having cancelled the Renovo date, and enjoyed one day resting here. The 512 employees enjoyed their vacation in a very orderly manner, in face of the fact that they received their pay for the week. Many crowded to the postoffice to send money to their homes, while others crowded our stores, making needed purchases. Tuesday was a fair day and an immense crowd, coming on the railroads and by conveyance. The great parade, a gorgeous affair, was all that could be wished for. The afternoon performance was attended by over two thousand persons and the reputation of John Robinson for producing what he advertised was fully maintained. The opening spectacle "King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba," while not up to that presented here two years ago, was a very beautiful and pleasing feature. The trained sea lions, the best number on the program was the wonder of the performance. It seems incredible that they should perform with balls, balancing them on the tips of their nose. In one instance one of those slimy animals crawled up a step ladder at the same time balancing a large ball. Their performance was wonderful as well as sensational. It would require more space than we have to give a full account of this great circus. One especially we desire to mention—that of the slack wire performance who performed a score of miraculous feats. "Looping the loop" caused many to close their eyes whilst the young colored lad made his lightning trip. The vast audience was kept busy watching the numerous performers—as many as eleven distinct acts being performed at the same time. It was the largest circus and best performance ever in this section and more than one cared to watch at one time.

The menagerie was truly the best collection of animals ever in this section. Rev. Speak, a retired minister, delivered lectures in front of the forty cages and imparted much information. The great three ring circus is evidently reaching the top notch and our town was very fortunate in having the opportunity of witnessing it.

Press Agent W. L. Wheeler was untiring in his efforts to make all feel at home and found it no hardship to assist the ladies and children to get the best view of the animals and point any features he thought might please them. He is a valuable acquision to John Robinson's honest show of clean performance and orderly, sober men and well behaved ladies—an army of ladies and men and not an intoxicated person was noticed during their two days' visit in Emporium. Mr. Robinson is a general, as well as an entertainer.

Amputation Necessary.

It is with keen regret that we announce the result of the serious accident to Mr. D. H. Lamb, an account of which was given in these columns last week. Accompanied by his wife and Dr. J. G. Steele, Mr. Lamb left for Dr. Park's hospital at Buffalo Friday afternoon he stood the journey fairly well and on Saturday morning although it was vainly hoped that the injured arm might be saved, amputation was found necessary and the arm was taken off about three inches above the elbow. He passed through the operation nicely, and although he has a high fever, is quite nervous and suffers considerable pain, he is getting along as well as can be expected.

Mr. Lamb has hosts of sympathizing friends in Galeton who sincerely hope the worst is now over, and trust his recovery may be a speedy one.—Galeton Dispatch,

Wedding Bells.

Invitations are issued by Mr. and Mrs. Alex. DeShetler, of Sinnamahoning announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Phoebe Belle, to Mr. Adelbert B. Beldin, next Wednesday evening. The young couple will reside at Beaver Falls, Pa., Mr. Belden having resided there some time. The happy twain will please accept the congratulations of the PRESS, even though it be a little in advance of the great occasion.

Children's Day will be observed Sunday evening 28th. Circumstances have compelled us to defer to another week, so kindly note the date, 28th.

Independent Changes Hands.

With to-day's issue the Independent changes hands, passing from the estate of the late S. S. Hacket to S. L. Barton and I. K. Hockley—the former having been connected with the paper for many years, while Mr. Hockley has for several years been associated editorially with the journal. We welcome the gentlemen and hope their fondest expectations may be realized. Both gentlemen have the ability to get up a good sheet and no doubt will serve the patrons faithfully. The PRESS extends the right hand of fellowship.

Busy Officials.

Burgess Josiah Howard, Chief of Police Frank Mundy and assistants Friendel, Ritchie, Montgomery, Dalphy and others, were kept busy on Monday and Tuesday preserving order. To the credit of the circus men be it said that the major portion of the drunkenness was confined to outsiders. The most disgusting exhibition was the arrest of two men who drove furiously through the streets with two ladies (?). The men landed in the lockup and enriched our borough treasury.

Elk County Mystery.

Mrs. Bernard Canavan of Kersey, Elk county, died Thursday morning under very mysterious circumstances. The Ridgway Advocate says that she had gone out from home Wednesday morning to pick wild strawberries, but did not return when expected, and a search was made for her. The lady was found in an unconscious condition, lying not far from the railroad, and her face horribly crushed or beaten. At first it was thought she might have been hit by a train, but her bucket was found upright and filled with berries, hence is believed she was assulted with a club.

John Peeling Killed.

John Peeling, the 19 year old son of our respected townspeople, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Peeling, met with sudden death while working on a B. & S. log train at Cowley Run Junction on Wednesday night. Less than two week's ago John left here full of life and vigor, physically able to cope with the hardships of life. He found employment on a B. & S. log train where he was gaining the confidence of his superiors as a careful, trusty man. At Cowley Run Junction Wednesday evening he stepped between the cars of a motionless, yet heavily loaded train, to in some way arrange the brakes when the slack in the couplings gave way and the logs which protruded over the cars caught his back and chest and a giant though he was in strength, his life light went out as a candle before a gale. The body was brought here to-day and was taken to the home of his parents on Brooklyn side. He leaves besides his aged father and mother, four brothers and four sisters namely. Thomas of Keating Summit, Charles of Newert, Frank of Emporium, Robert of Buffalo, Mrs. William Mangold of Wharton, Mrs. Hiram Claflin and Mrs. Frank Green of Liberty Township and Anna C., this borough. He was to have been married next month to Miss Marie Whalen of this borough. The sympathy of the community goes out to all in their sorrow. The funeral will be held tomorrow at 3 o'clock at the M. E. church. Intermennt at Fairview cemetery.—Port Allegany Argus.

Blumle and the Truth.

Harrisburg Telegraph.

Woe to the human race that a wind having its origin in Cameron county can whelm the land and make anybody tired! Herr Blumle is loose again. Gusts of vocables and cataclysms of rhetoric in Emporium threaten to disturb the State with a vast upheaval—perhaps of mirth. In addition, Herr Blumle, for some reason named Francis Xavier, has painted his face, thrown the belt off the wheels of the machine for the encouragement of fecundity and began a ghost dunce in clogs having for one of its purposes a stealthy attack upon the integrity of the Telegraph. This gentlemen who would be the father of fecundity prizes and the foster father of the entire population of Cameron county, said in a recent issue of the East Emporium Independent, while speaking of Mr. Mullin, the man who got Blumle's place in the Legislature when Blumle was unseated:

Mullin wrote the slurs that appeared in the Harrisburg Telegraph himself and paid for them, too. It was one of his regular daily trips to the office on Third street, where he spent more time than he did in his own office in Emporium.

The winds that moan through the physical development above Mr. Blumle's shoulders probably got the putative Representative's facts mixed, but with these trifling exceptions they are correct:

1. Mr. Mullin did not spend more time in the Telegraph office than he did in his office in Emporium.
2. Mr. Mullin never spent any time in the Telegraph office during the last session of the Legislature.
3. Mr. Mullin did not write anything for the Telegraph.
4. Mr. Mullin did not cause anything to be written for the Telegraph.
5. Mr. Mullin did not bring, send or procure the sending of any written thing for the Telegraph.
6. The editorial columns of the Telegraph are not and never were at the disposal of Mr. Mullin.
7. The editorial columns of the Telegraph are not for sale.
8. Neither Mr. Mullin nor any other men or set of men can buy the editorial columns of the Telegraph.
9. We do not know and will not ask anybody to tell us what is meant by: "It was one of his daily trips to the office on Third street." This sounds like a watchword of the Society for the Encouragement of Frequent Births, and its meaning may not be proper for publication.

Many men might say that Blumle is an exaggerator and an arch enemy of the truth. We slur no man. We say that Mr. Blumle is such a friend of truth that he takes liberties with it in comparison with which the greatest license of the press is but a peccadillo.

FATALLY INJURED

Michael Zimmitt, a Carpenter, Falls From Scaffold, Breaking His Back.

Yesterday afternoon about three o'clock, Michael Zimmitt, a carpenter in the employ of contractor Kriner, fell from a scaffold at Frank Shives' new residence, a distance of twenty-three feet, breaking his back. He was removed to the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. A. Kinsler, and Drs. DeLong and Bardwell called, who pronounced the injury fatal.

Mr. Zimmett, who owns and works a farm in Plank Road Hollow, at the same time following his occupation of carpenter, has resided here many years and is one of our hard working, honest citizens. His death is only a question of a little time. Mr. Zimmitt has worked upon the largest buildings in town and always exercised the greatest care. It is a mystery that he should stand upon a slim board that would not carry a boy, much less a man. We in common with our people, deeply deplore this accident to one who has always labored so faithfully to procure a home and rear his family.

How Bad They Feel.

The fact that Renovo has been reeking with small-pox for some time and no disposition manifested to purge themselves until the State Board of health got after them and threatened to fence in the town, was sufficient to cause Robinson's circus to give that town the go-by, not deeming it policy to expose themselves. Accordingly they came to Emporium and rested on Monday, thereby adding many hundreds of dollars to the tills of our merchants—Monday being pay day with the circus.

Of course a portion of the smart (?) Alexs of Renovo, more especially the Renovo News, have been in a hysterical state ever since the great circus declined to stop, and appear to vent their spite on Emporium and Kane, as follows:

A few of the hystorical old folks at Emporium and Kane, who never saw a case of smallpox, and who evidently cherish strong feelings of living for ever on this earth, took it into their heads that Renovo was not a good place for the show to stop at. They were ably seconded by a few slimy eels of this place, who got in their work by direct correspondence and innuendo. The consequence was the management of the Robinson circus concluded to cancel their engagement here, even though they lost several thousands of dollars by the transaction. This was done to appease and truckle to the silliness of a few likely old heifers in Renovo, at Emporium and at Kane. By not showing here their nerves will be spared a severe shock, unless a wayward thunder storm should arise during the progress of the performance tomorrow and the day after.

In justice to the management of the Robinson circus it should be stated that they were ready and willing to show in Renovo. They wanted to fulfill their engagement here but the objections from Emporium and Kane were such that if they stopped here their license in the two latter villages would be cancelled. At least this is the substance of excuse given by the Robinson people. They also added that we had people in our own midst who were fearful of having the show appear here at this time."

The fact that several cases of smallpox were removed from Renovo last Friday night was evidence alone that it was dangerous to attract from the surrounding country hundreds of people and if we are rightly informed a large portion of Renovo citizens were not in favor of allowing the circus to stop there, even if they had shown a disposition to do so, which they did not. As far as we can learn, no Emporium official notified the management of the circus not to stop at Renovo, threatening to revoke their license.

Renovo should clean up their town, use a little paint and whitewash—something the town stands sorely in need of—and possibly, after a time, some second-class circus or Uncle Tom troupe might be induced to stop at our suburban town.

Don't take it too hard, neighbor. The fact that you missed a holiday may be a blessing in disguise.

The disgraceful language used by the News in venting its disappointed spleen on the fair names of Emporium and Kane cannot be accounted for, except that the old green-eyed monster—jealously—got the better of their judgement.

The Sale of Fire Arms.

Editor Press:—

The time of year is now at hand to look out for the toy cannon and the cheap revolver, as the ever glorious Fourth of July is soon at hand, and all Young America wants to celebrate by making all the noise possible, and for some reason their minds all run to the cheap revolver and cannon. These they can easily buy at any store at this time of the year, and there is nothing to hinder any "kid" with the price, from buying guns and ammunition. I think there should be some change made in the laws regarding the buying, owning, carrying of revolvers, or all other weapons having a barrel shorter than sixteen inches. As the law now stands "tramps, toughs, and outlaws," are the only people that can carry a short gun, or revolver, as law abiding citizens respect the law in regard to carrying concealed weapons. This is illustrated by the following story of two highwaymen who met on a street corner just as a man had passed:

No. 2 says to No. 1 "Why did you not rob that man?" No. 1, "Because he did not look like a law abiding citizen." No. 2, "What difference does that make?" No. 1. "He might have a gun with him." There is considerable to this, as I have noticed something of this among certain people in my travels. One place in particular, I was working where the population was mostly of a low class, of Huns, Slavs and Italians. It was a common occurence for a robbery and a murder about once a week, but I noticed that those who carried a gun were known to be good marksmen, and with grit enough to use it, were rarely ever stopped. Once a man was stopped that did have a gun and knew how to use it and the consequence was, one of the highwaymen was killed and the other one sent to the hospital for repairs. From my own experience I think the law should be changed so that a business man could protect himself by carrying a gun if necessary, and so that tramps and young boys could not obtain them. This could be done, I think, by some law that would require all hardware and sporting goods dealers not to sell to any person that did not have a license to carry arms. This license could be obtained of the justice of peace, for a fee of five dollars. Then the price of all revolvers should be alike, at least fifteen dollars. At this price a person would be able to buy a good arm, and that price, with the five dollar license to buy the arm, would stop the sale of revolvers to tramps, boys, and all people that did not have anything to protect. And still the twenty or twenty-five dollars for the right to buy a first-class gun and carry it, would not be too high for a business man to pay that had anything to protect.

He would also have the satisfaction of owning a good gun, one that is altogether safe and reliable. By the license system the police could know just who owned a revolver in each county. The license should give a man the right to carry a revolver only for self-protection, and should require a person to have about fifty dollars in money, or jewlery, or other valuables on his person at the time of carrying the gun. And any time a man misused his right to carry arms by reckless shooting, either by false manipulation of the arm or by reckless target practice, his license should be taken away from him and his revolver turned over to the police. I think if a law of this kind, or some modification of it, would do much to stop the practice of carrying revolvers by people that do not need them, while the cost and publicity of having a right to carry arms would keep many more from carrying them, while the tough element could not buy a gun, for only respectable persons would be given a license and no dealer could sell without seeing the license, and taking the number of same together with the persons name. These he would keep a record of for his own protection, in case any damage being done with any gun he had sold. As soon as the revolver is bought it should be taken to the police justice and he should stamp a number on it corresponding to the number of the license number. Then in case a revolver was found in a house, or beside a dead person, the number of same would show the license number and that would show the person's name that owned that particular revolver. Many crimes could be traced in this way.

LOYAL TO PROTECTION.

The Pennsylvania Convention Opposed Any General Revision of the Tariff.

Pennsylvania is a business state, a state of producers, a state of wage-earners, a state where republicans and foremost democrats have united for years in the advocacy of protection as an upbuilding principle. They could never get Samuel J. Randall, once the most prominent democrat in Pennsylvania, to jump into the free trade maelstrom. He knew that it was the current of protection that was turning the wheels of mills and filling the reservoirs of prosperity, says the Troy Times.

The republican state convention in Pennsylvania was loyal as ever to a protective tariff, and opposed any suggestion of a general revision of the present tariff law. The republicans of Pennsylvania, in their platform adopted, say of the law:

"Since its enactment we have conducted an expensive war with Spain and paid its cost. Within the last three years congress has reduced taxation to the amount of $116,000,000 per anunm, and yet the national treasury to-day is richer by $97,000,000 than it was before the war began. We believe it to be the dictates of wisdom to let well enough alone, and not to imperil business interests by any suggestions of present interference with revenue legislation. Permanence and stability of tariff rates are essential to continued business prosperity."

Protection is a theory founded on facts. Free trade is a disturbance founded on theory. No theory can long exist which is not supported by results, and there never was a political theory propounded which has had more splendid indorsement in its effects in practical operation than the principle that the government should protect its own citizens and defend them against those who would close at the same time the markets and the mills.

AS TO THE "IOWA IDEA."

How Senator Allison Proposes to Dispose of a Fictitious Issue.

It is given out that Senator Allison has undertaken to draw the platform at the coming Iowa convention, or at least that part of it which relates to the tariff. The purpose behind the selection is to frame a plank on which all republicans can stand. No man is better fitted for the task than Senator Allison. He is politic, wary and sagacious. He is past master in the art of composing differences and bringing settlements, says the Philadelphia Press.

The plan announced in connection with Senator Allison's leadership harmonizes with the part. When others were quarreling over what was called the "Iowa idea" last year he said that there was nothing in it to quarrel over; that the state platform which was the subject of so much dispute embraced nothing which was not contained in the St. Louis national platform of 1896 on which President McKinley was elected; and that thus disputants were making an issue where there was no issue.

As the natural sequence of this view he proposes that the contending sides in Iowa shall agree on the tariff plank of the St. Louis platform in form or in substance; that it shall be adopted at the Iowa convention this year, and that it shall be submitted to the national convention next year as the basis of general agreement. Gov. Cummins, who is the special champion of the so-called "Iowa idea," is said to have accepted this proposition; Senator Allison's own support carries the favor of the other side; and President Roosevelt is represented as having given his concurrence and approval.

All this is not only not improbable, but natural and reasonable. What is called the "Iowa idea" has been invested with a fictitious importance and significance. It has really been only the fulcrum of some personal and factional leverage. It has been the stalking horse of personal ambitions within the party, and its meaning has been more political than economic. Senator Allison is quite right in saying that there is nothing in it which was not in the national platform of 1896. All republicans accepted then without any question, and there is no reason why it should not be accepted now.

WANTED—A RUNNING MATE.

G. O. P.—Roosevelt Is All Right; All I Want Now Is a Running Mate Who Can Come Up to the Pace He Sets.—Minneapolis Journal.

WORKERS ARE PROSPEROUS.

Prosperity Is General and Business Is Booming Throughout the Country.

Statistics for April on commodity prices in proportion to consumption show that the cost of living during that month was lower than in March and lower than a year ago. This is most gratifying, in view of the fact that wages are higher than for many years past and employment more plentiful, says the Troy Times. Prosperity is general throughout the country, and business is enjoying a boom that has never been exceeded. In the west the farm crops are so large that the farmers are unable to obtain enough help to harvest the yield of the soil. The Kansas wheat crop will be the largest in the history of that state, and it is estimated that 30,000 extra farmhands will be needed to gather the crop and prepare it for shipment.

Such a condition is very encouraging to labor. Instead of the man looking for the job the job is looking for the man. This of course means better compensation. With good jobs, higher wages and food products lower one does not need to go far to seek the reason for increased savings bank deposits and generally improved conditions among the men and women who toil. It is a discouraging outlook for only one class of individuals, and that class consists of the discordant element known as "calamity howlers." They have been permanently and expeditiously put out of business. They will be on hand, however, when the next presidential campaign opens, but their bulging pocketbooks and air of prosperity will belie their words, and the shadows of the tall timbers will swallow them up in oblivion long ere the voters have indorsed at the polls the policies which have made possible the marvelous prosperity which the country is enjoying.

☞It is about time for some one to refer to the page of ancient history which records the fact that when Mr. Cleveland was first nominated he declared himself emphatically opposed to a second term. However, that did not interfere with his accepting two subsequent nominations.—Washington Post.

Democrats in More Trouble.

Here is more trouble for the democratic party. There are many indications that the populists of Kansas and other western states will support the republican ticket next year. As a matter of fact many of them have recently been voting for republican candidates. Nor is there anything surprising about this. It is certain that a large proportion of the populists came from the republican ranks. They were carried away temporarily by the free silver and other delusions, but they never were at heart in sympathy with the cardinal free trade principle of the democracy, or some of the new-fangled and ill-digested ideas of Mr. Bryan. Experience and wise republican administration has taught them the fallacy of the cheap money and other populistic notions, and those of them formerly in sympathy with the republican party are returning to their first love. It is perfectly safe to say that thousands on thousands of voters in the west, who supported the democratic ticket in 1896 and 1900 will be found enthusiastically in line for the republican candidates and platform in 1904. And nothing Mr. Bryan or any other man can do will prevent this.—Troy Times.

☞Mr. Bryan has suggested for the democratic nominee in 1904 a Tennessee man and a North Carolina man. The southern states, which furnish the democratic votes, might well consider the propriety of taking the candidate from its own section. While the result would not be changed, the experiment would be politically interesting.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

ELEVEN MURDERS.

A Michigan Woman Said to Have Committed Them — Strychnine Tablets Were Used.

Kalkaska, Mich., June 11.—After two weeks' work Prosecutor E. C. Smith has secured the confession of Mrs. Mary McKnight to the cold-blooded, premeditated murder of her brother, John Murphy; Gertrude Murphy, his young wife, and their 3-months-old baby. A partial confession was made Monday evening in which Mrs. McKnight denied killing the baby. Late Tuesday night Smith again called at the woman's cell at her request and this time she made a complete confession. In her statement she admitted giving Mr. and Mrs. Murphy capsules of strychnine and quinine mixed.

Eight other persons beside the three to whose murders Mrs. McKnight confessed, investigation shows, have died in the past 15 years under circumstances that, in view of the woman's confession, are now thought to be very suspicious. All of the eight were either relatives or intimate friends who died while living with Mrs. McKnight, or while she was at their house. All are said to have shown symptoms that are now believed to indicate strychnine poisoning. They are:

Ernest McKnight, the woman's husband.

James Ambrose, her first husband, who died in Alpena in 1887.

Mrs. McKnight, the wife of James E. McKnight, who was the partner of Ambrose.

Baby Katie, Mrs. McKnight's niece.

Eliza Chalker, another niece, who died at Grayling in May, 1892.

Sara Murphy, Mrs. McKnight's sister, who died at Grayling in February, 1898.

A Mrs. Curry, who died in Saginaw in 1893 while Mrs. McKnight was at her mother's house.

Dorothy Jenson, a child, who died in Grayling while under Mrs. McKnight's care during the absence of her mother.

Investigation of these deaths shows that all of these persons except Mrs. Curry were taken suddenly ill and showed what are now regarded as unmistakable symptoms of strychnine poisoning. The physician who attended Ernest McKnight, the woman's husband, says that he is now confident that McKnight died from strychnine. The physician, Dr. Leighton, who was baffled by McKnight's trouble and the suddenness with which it came, says he can see now that he had every symptom of strychnine poisoning. Eliza Chalker and Sara Murphy were stricken at the table while Mrs. McKnight was present. Both died in convulsions in a few hours.

There was no suspicion against Mrs. McKnight in connection with the murders until she filed a mortgage on her brother's property after his death, on which the figures had, it is alleged, been raised from $200 to $600. An investigation was then begun. The body of John Murphy was exhumed and strychnine found in the stomach. Mrs. McKnight was placed under arrest, with the result that she confessed. Her confession was entirely voluntary and she seemed perfectly sane, although under great mental strain. No motive for the crimes can be found.

BIG BRIBERY FUND.

It Is Alleged to Have Been Raised to Secure Admission Into a Labor Organization.

New York, June 11.—District Attorney Jerome in an interview yesterday told of further transactions involving Samuel J. Parks, the business agent of the Housesmiths' union, now under bonds. In the fall of 1902 a strike was precipitated by the Amalgamated Painters and Decorators. It affected principally the boss cabinet makers. The Amalgamated Painters and Decorators' organization was a member of the building trades council, while its rival, the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers, was not. The employers decided they could best fight the strike by fostering the brotherhood. Accordingly they tried to obtain for it representation in the council.

The brotherhood, said Mr. Jerome, raised $25,500 towards its expense of obtaining admission to the council. A prominent cabinetmaker urged 17 firms to contribute $250 each for the same purpose. Two firms refused. The Union club was one of the contributors. After the money was paid, Mr. Jerome said, a brotherhood man told the cabinetmakers: "While we have collected this fund, it is impossible to do what we want with this amount. There is to be an election of officers in the council soon and it will be necessary to make another collection."

Again the cabinetmakers were called upon, said Mr. Jerome, and each gave up $200 more. This amount was paid to five walking delegates. One of them, Mr. Jerome declared, was Parks.

Fatal Explosion in a Mine.

Leadville, Col., June 11.—Two hundred and fifty pounds of giant powder exploded at the shaft house of the Fortune mine yesterday. Five men were entombed in the mine until late in the afternoon, when all were rescued excepting the superintendent, Patrick Barker, who was found dead in the bottom of the shaft with his head cut off. It is believed that he was struck by falling timbers.

Carnegie Buys Fossils.

Pittsburg, June 11.—Dr. William J. Holland, director of the Carnegie institute, of Pittsburg, announced yesterday that Andrew Carnegie had purchased from Baron De Bayet, of Brussels, Belgium, his notable collection of European fossils, and that the collection had been presented to the Carnegie museum in this city. Dr. Holland says paleontologists have long regarded the De Bayet collection as the best outside of the great museums of Europe and that there is nothing in America at present to equal it.

DECLINES ALL AID.

Russia Refuses to Accept American Offers to Help the Kischineff Sufferers.

Washington, June 11.—Numerous offers have reached the Russian government from American sources to aid the families of sufferers in the recent Kishineff incident. All such offers have been declined for the reason that Russia is entirely capable of extending relief and under the circumstances cannot accept outside aid.

The Russian position in the matter is as follows:

Russia has not been unappreciative of the generous offers which have come to her from America since the affair at Kishineff, nor of the motive which may have prompted these offers. In view of the fact that the emperor has the means at hand to relieve suffering whenever it appears in his empire, outside aid is unnecessary and all offers of such must be declined.

Nor will it be possible for Russia to receive any representations regarding the Kishineff incident from a foreign power. The Russian government takes the same position as that long held by the American government, namely, that it refrains from interfering in the internal affairs of another power and must insist on similar treatment for itself. Should any foreign power take steps to restrict immigration of Russian Jews on the ground that they are undesirable, Russia will not protest.

SHOPMEN STRIKE.

Twelve Hundred Men in the Employ of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad Co. Quit Work.

Huntington, W. Va., June 11.—Twelve hundred employes at the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad shops in this city, and including even the office force, struck Wednesday, the cause being perhaps the oddest ever known. William Davis, a carpenter employed by the Chesapeake & Ohio and who is a member of the city council, recently voted along with a majority of the council to take from Mayor Buck his authority to name the standing committees for the ensuing year, this being the termination of a fight between the mayor and the chief of police. Policemen appointed by the mayor were discharged and others named contrary to his wishes. Mayor Buck being a member of the Blacksmiths' union, his fellow laborers demanded that Davis be discharged. The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co. refused, hence the strike.

Worst Storm in 30 Years.

Philadelphia, June 11.—The heaviest electrical and rain storm that has visited this city in 30 years was experienced Wednesday. The city for nearly half an hour was rendered almost as dark as at midnight and the storm raged for a full hour, hail accompanying the rain. Nearly two inches of rain fell. The sewers in various sections of the city were flooded, many telegraph wires were prostrated and trolley cars were blocked. The New York Shipbuilding Co., in Camden, was forced to shut down because of the flooding of its electrical plant, and the Pennsylvania railroad tracks were under water.

Indicted the Mayor.

Pittsburg, June 11.—The grand jury yesterday returned a true bill against William B. Hays, mayor of Pittsburg, charging him with misdemeanor in discharging Samuel Moore from the city's employ. Moore was an official of the ordinance bureau of the city and an old soldier. On March 31, 1903, he, with a number of others, was discharged by Hays. The matter was taken up by the old soldiers of the county and a test case was made in Moore's case. The case is being watched with great interest by G. A. R. men, as upon its result hangs the fate of other veterans who were discharged.

Must Serve His Sentence.

Raleigh, N. C., June 11.—James Wilcox, the murderer of Nellie Cropsey, of Elizabeth City, will have to serve his sentence of 30 years in the state prison here. On his first trial he was sentenced to be hanged, but the supreme court gave him a new trial because the spectators at the trial made a demonstration when Wilcox's lawyer arose to speak. On the second trial in a different county he was convicted of murder in the second degree and sentenced to serve 30 years in the penitentiary. This judgment the supreme court on Wednesday affirmed.

Kidnapped by Pirates.

Washington, June 11.—The following cablegram has been received at the state department from United States Consul General McWade, at Canton, China: "American kidnapped by pirates while proceeding from Canton to Heunghan. Nine thousand dollars ransom is asked. I have sent the Callao (American gunboat) to the rescue and to demand that the viceroy secure the release of the man and the punishment of the pirates. Details later."

Ware Calls a Halt.

Washington, June 11.—Pension Commissioner Ware, himself a Kansan, has issued the following order: "It is reported that a subscription paper is being circulated in the pension bureau for the Kansas flood sufferers. Let it be discontinued. Kansas can take care of its own sufferers."

Strikers Invaded a Factory.

Kingston, N. Y., June 11.—Six hundred striking employes of the American Cigar Co. marched to the factory yesterday, broke into the building and compelled 50 employes who refused to strike, to quit work. The police were telephoned for, but were unable to clear the building. The sheriff refused to interfere until the police were unable to cope with the strikers. The latter were finally induced to leave, but later returned. After two hours the police drove the strikers from the building and established a strong guard.

REVIEW OF TRADE.

Steady Demand Noted in Nearly All Lines — Labor Troubles Interfere with Business Operations.

New York, June 13.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

Except in those branches of business that are always quiet at this season, reports indicate a steady demand and prices of commodities are firmly maintained. Manufacturing returns are irregular, idleness in textile lines partially offsetting the good effect of activity elsewhere.

That furnace stocks of pig iron increased only 40,000 tons last month, despite the unprecedented output, testifies to the great consumption of the steel industry. Quotations are without alteration, although much business is delayed by labor troubles. In case of a general settlement of these conflicts there would be resumption of work on many buildings, and, including the requirements of railroads, a heavy tonnage would be sought. It is an evidence of confidence in the future that blast furnace operators are forcing production beyond all previous maximum figures.

While the demand for structural steel has diminished, there is notable inquiry for rails and plates. Machinery and hardware lines are doing remarkably well for the season, which is usually quiet in these departments. Coke ovens are surpassing all previous records for activity and the output of anthracite coal promises to establish a new high water mark this year above 60,000,000 tons.

Cotton goods again average slightly higher in price, the advances being insisted upon by producers on account of the raw material, and in no degree attributable to increased anxiety to place contracts on the part of buyers. Conservatism prevails among buyers of staple woolens and worsteds. Footwear conditions continue most prosperous.

Failures this week were 215 in the United States, against 162 last year, and 14 in Canada, compared with 20 a year ago.

HIRED ASSASSINS,

Testimony in the Trial of the Men Accused of the Murder of Lawyer Marcum.

Jackson, Ky., June 13.—A number of correspondents arrived here Friday, including magazine writers and artists for illustrated papers. Provost Marshal Longmyer has made no arrests for two nights and two days. Since he closed the "blind tigers" there has been no shooting during the night. The free use of weapons in the carousals around these places led to reports at times of bands of feudists coming into town to attack the jail. The jury had to take recess yesterday earlier than usual because the next witness was unable to get on the witness stand and it was evident that liquor is still available from some source.

The feature of the trial was the drift of evidence toward a conspiracy connecting county officials and tending to show that Jett and White had no motives to conspire, but were simply hired to kill Marcum, who was the attorney for parties contesting the election of county officials. The defense during the forenoon attempted to have the case continued on account of the absence of witnesses, and again in the afternoon on account of the illness of the defendant. In both instances Judge Redwine ordered the trial to proceed.

The prosecution will rest its case today. Soldiers have been commissioned to secure the presence of several reluctant witnesses whose testimony will be heard when court reconvenes. The parties wanted are said to be hiding in the woods and some attribute their attitude to fear or intimidation.

EXPRESS ROBBERS.

The Alleged Thieves are Arrested at Huntington, Ind.

Huntington, Ind., June 13.—Cyrus Gillen, aged 25, of Piqua, O., and Frank Marion, aged 29, of Lima, O., are under arrest here for the robbery of a Chicago & Erie express car between here and Chicago. Thursday night goods were found along the railroad tracks in the vicinity of Crown Point. Train crews following were ordered to pick up the same and keep watch for other goods. A close watch was kept on express train No. 8, which arrived in this city early Friday morning. An officer grabbed Gillen, who was standing in the car, but after a long run, pursued by the officer, he escaped.

In the meantime Marion was discovered in the car by express messengers and held until the arrival of an officer. Later Gillen was arrested in the railroad yards after eight shots had been fired by the officers. On the two prisoners was found a large amount of goods of all kinds. Reports from along the Erie road say that express packages of all descriptions were found strewn along the track.

Forty Days' Fast was Fatal.

Scranton, Pa., June 13.—Edward McIntyre, the Minooka, Pa., hotelkeeper, who ended a 40 days' fast at noon last Tuesday, died Friday. McIntyre began the fast in the hope that it would prove beneficial in a severe attack of paralysis. He was 47 years old. During the 40 days his weight was reduced from 167 pounds to 118. In the three days after he took nourishment, preceding death, he gained seven pounds.

The Island Is a Myth.

Cape Town, June 13.—The result of the German Antarctic expedition which has returned here dissipates the tradition that Termination Island, which is marked on the map, exists. The expedition on traversing the alleged site of the island took photographs all around, and the results showed no land. The greatest cold experienced by the expedition was 48 Reamur. Many members suffered from frost bites and others were blinded by snow for days during sleigh journeys. The ice in which the boats were held was 30 feet in thickness.

Shall We Change Map of Europe

By DR. JAMES M. GRAY

Noted Bible Lecturer

A peculiar interest attaches to the words of Senator Villari in a recent address before the king and queen of Italy at the opening of the international historical congress, in which he made several allusions to the United States, saying among other things that Europe was shut in between her on the west and Russia on the east. These two forces, he added, Russia and the United States, acting on Europe, "are likely to render necessary a union of the different European countries which may completely change the geographical situation to the universal advantage of Europe."

The peculiar interest is found in the fact that the prognostication of the senator as to its chief conclusion, if not the method of its accomplishment, has been the burden of the prophets of the Old and New Testaments for nearly three millenniums. These prophets, Joel, Isaiah, Micah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, Daniel, Zechariah, Paul, Peter, Jude and John, are a unit, when properly interpreted, as to the federation of the nations of Europe towards the end of the present age. Not that they reveal in detail the principles governing this federation, though there is reason to believe they will be religious, educational, military and commercial—especially the last named.

That which the Bible forecasts is a great international trust of nations with a single king at its head, to whom the kingdoms in the combine have delegated their power for the time being and for the purposes of the trust. The second, seventh and eighth chapters of Daniel, and the thirteenth, eighteenth and nineteenth of Revelation are particularly definite on these points.

Curiously enough [illegible] referred to as occupying the head of the trust is not recognized at first as a leading monarch of Europe, rather the opposite indeed, for he is described symbolically as a "little horn." And yet in his coming into power not only will his rise be rapid, but be marked by the overthrow of three of the other powers almost at the start. A profound English student of these subjects more than 50 years ago remarked that some such person as the reigning prince of Montenegro would answer the description very well. What a unique history has that little European principality! Its population is scarcely a quarter of a million, its area is but 3,630 square miles, and although it has been at war with Turkey for more than four centuries, yet it represents practically an absolute hereditary monarchy, and has maintained its present dynasty for 200 years. What thrilling interest these considerations throw around the present movements of Russia on the one hand, and Turkey on the other, with reference to that little kingdom and her diminutive neighbors.

Villari's telescope, however, can pierce no farther than the period of Europe's advantage in the coming trust, but the spirit of prophecy exceeds that. Advantage at the beginning, the Bible tells us, will be disadvantage in the end. Indeed it is a question not altogether settled in the minds of students of prophecy, whether the delegation of the power of the kings into the hands of one is for the purpose of fostering this union or destroying it. There is a democratic and socialistic cast to such a union not in favor with earthly potentates, and, while circumstances may require them to yield assent to it at the first, we can undersand how they may desire to crush it in the end. The harlot of revelation rides and controls the beast for awhile, but afterwards it turns and rends her. The beast represents the kingdoms federated under one head, but the harlot the moral, political and commercial system which gives rise to it.

The place of the United States in all this is not definitely revealed in prophecy, except as she may be allied or entangled with the European governments referred to. But events move strangely as well as rapidly in these days, and history grows apace. Prior to the war with Spain the Monroe doctrine was thought to be "a great gulf fixed" separating us from such "entangling alliances," but to-day it has become a bridge by which they may be fastened upon us at any time.

The nations are like men, touch their pocketbooks and you touch their life. And the United States touches the pocketbook of every commercial port of Europe. Russia seeks territory, and we trade, and between the two the old Roman empire must unite or die. The Italian senator may be right, and the United States may change the map of Europe.

What to Think About

By DR. L. H. LANCASTER

Pastor Lindel Avenue Methodist Church, St. Louis

WHATSOEVER things are true, honest, just, pure, lovely and of good report; think on these things.

What an appetizing mental menu! What a wholesome selection of food for thought! What attractive and cheery things to think about! We hear much in these days of "don't worry" clubs, "sunshine societies" and the gospel of relaxation, as if these were the discoveries of the twentieth century. But 3,000 years ago a wise man said: "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine," while nearly 2,000 years ago lived the optimist Paul, who always taught and exemplified cheerfulness, buoyancy and healthy-mindedness.

A lady friend in calling upon a woman living in one of the flats of a large city was asked by the cheerful housewife to notice the pleasant outlook from the parlor windows. "Yes," said the caller, "I see a remarkably fine lot of chimneys." "Chimneys!" exclaimed the lady of the house, "why, I never think of them; I look over the chimneys and see only those magnificent trees which form the horizon line. I think only of the trees and the sunsets." She was a good disciple of the Gospel of Paul, as given in our text; she chose, as we ought always to do, the best things to think about.

This is a matter of great importance, for, "as a man thinketh in his heart so is he." What we think about is ever affecting our life and character, and the best thinking is necessary to the best living. In all stages of life we readily trace the influence of thought upon character. There is a close resemblance between the stories read by some boys and their reckless criminal careers later in life. Many an empty-headed, vain young woman has been found to have frivolous, unnutritious food in her reading. Washington and Lincoln showed in their grand characters the same high qualities as characterized their youthful reading. The strong moral and spiritual fiber which marked Protestant Reformers, the Puritans and Covenanters, was largely due to the fact that they were nourished with Scripture teachings. Those who would emulate their work must imitate their habits.

MURDER IN PALACE

The King and Queen of Servia Are Assassinated.

Chased to the Roof and Shot—Queen Draga's Two Brothers, Premier Markovitch, Three Members of Servian Cabinet and Others Also Killed.

Belgrade, Servia, June 12.—A military revolution broke out here Wednesday night. The troops, who revolted, surrounded the palace, assassinated King Alexander, Queen Draga, the latter's two brothers, Premier Markovitch, Ministers Petrovitch and Tudorovics, Gen. Pavlovitch, the former minister of war, two aides-de-camp and two other officers.

Prince Karageorgevitch was proclaimed king.

Vienna, June 12.—Dispatches from Belgrade say that since the late King Alexander's last suspension of the Servian constitution the army has been animated by hostile feelings toward both the king and queen.

The revolution was planned weeks ago. Secret committees were organized in the country and worked in cooperation with the army. The leaders of the revolution are said to have been the new ministers of justice and finance, respectively M. Schiokovics and M. Velikovics, and the Sixth regiment of infantry, garrisoning Belgrade, was designated to carry out the plot. It was originally intended that the plot should be executed later, but fears that the new Servian parliament would settle the question of the succession to the throne hastened matters.

Col. Naumovics, the adjutant of the king, was entrusted with the execution of the plans. While on duty at 11 o'clock Wednesday night Naumovics burst in the door leading to the sleeping apartments of the royal couple with a bomb and then entered, accompanied by Mischics and a number of junior officers. Previously the palace guard had been overpowered and its commander was killed. Naumovics presented to the king a form of abdication for his signature. The document contained the statement that by marrying a "public prostitute" the king had degraded Servia and that therefore he must abdicate. The king's answer was to draw a revolver and kill Naumovics on the spot.

Michics then picked up the document and presented it again, and the king, who perceived his danger, fled with Queen Draga to the palace roof, both being in their night clothes. The officers followed, continuously firing, ultimately shooting down the royal couple. Maj. Lazarewics, who had been under the king's displeasure for two years, is said to have fired the shot which actually killed the king. At about 2 o'clock in the morning Queen Draga's two brothers were shot at their homes, as well as Premier Markovitch and his brother-in-law, M. Milkovitz, the minister of the interior, M. Tudorovics, and his daughter, and the war minister, Gen. Pavlovitch.

Geneva, June 12.—Prince Peter Karageorgevitch, whom the Servian army has proclaimed king, has been living in Geneva since 1891.

Through the Russian consul, an intimate friend of Prince Karageorgevitch, the Associated Press correspondent obtained the following statement:

"Prince Karageorgevitch declares himself innocent of any knowledge of the tragedy at Belgrade. He said that through his grandfather he undoubtedly had the best right to the Servian throne, and intended taking it if possible for the sake of his son, but he expected to meet with great difficulties and hoped for assistance from Austria."

The prince is a widower, aged 53 and appears older. He has three children: George, his heir, 16 years old; Alexander, 4 years old, and Helene, aged 19 years. He lives in an extremely simple manner.

Belgrade, June 13.—The assassination of King Alexander and Queen Draga, the latter's two brothers, the Servian premier, minister of war and former minister of war, and the proclamation by the army of Prince Peter Karageorgevitch, the pretender to the throne, as king of Servia, has apparently been accepted by the capital and the Servian people without a murmur. The meeting of parliament on Monday next is now looked forward to to confirm the proclamation as king of Prince Karageorgevitch and to regularize the new situation.

Geneva, June 13.—Prince Karageorgevitch, the newly proclaimed king of Servia, gave an interview Friday in which he repeated his disclaimer of any complicity, direct or indirect, in the assassinations of King Alexander and Queen Draga. He expressed his detestation of the crime and gave a brief outline of his own political tendencies.

Berlin, June 13.—An interview with Col. Mischich, who was the leader of the military party which burst into the palace at Belgrade Wednesday night, is published here. The colonel is quoted as saying:

"There were a number of us. Whether it was I or another who fired the first shot is simply conjecture. The chief point for us is that our work was successful. We have rendered the fatherland a tremendous service, and we are highly satisfied at our success."

A Murder and Suicide.

Indianapolis, June 12.—James Dumas, proprietor of a transfer company here, killed Sarah F. King, wife of Wesley R. King, a workman, yesterday, and then committed suicide. The shooting was done at the King home. The dead bodies were found by a daughter of the murdered woman. There were two bullet holes in the woman's head. On the coat of Dumas was a button photograph of the murdered woman. He also wore several of her rings. The daughter said the two had been together considerably for several years.

HOTEL EMPLOYES STRIKE.

Twenty-five of Chicago's Leading Hotels Are Badly Crippled—The Fight Will Be Stubbornly Contested.

Chicago, June 13.—The strike in the hotels of Chicago, impending for the last three weeks, materialized yesterday and 25 of the leading hotels of Chicago are badly crippled in all departments. All the hotels are running, however, and the proprietors declare that the establishments will remain open for business at any cost.

The first call to the employes of the hotels to go on strike was made by the walking delegates at 9 o'clock Friday morning and all day the delegates were visiting the different hotels represented in the Hotel Keepers' association and were calling out the help.

In several places the walking delegates were refused admission and were compelled to signal the employes from the outside. In others the strike leaders were met with the declaration that there was no need of making a call on the men to go out, the hotel proprietors telling the help it would be necessary to get out and stay until the trouble was over. The last hotels in which strikes were declared were the Virginia, the Great Northern, the Brevoort and the Union. The men in these places walked out last night.

The Lexington hotel signed the scale presented by the union five minutes after the help had been called out.

The proprietors have agreed to submit nearly every point at issue to arbitration, but to this the unions will not consent. They insist that their demands for higher wages and shorter hours must be granted before they will arbitrate anything and insist also upon the absolute recognition of the union. To this latter demand the proprietors say they will never agree so long as the strikers maintain their present attitude. The proprietors have expressed a willingness to arbitrate this proposition also, but the men will not recede from their position. The union also demands that the members of the Hotel Keepers' association come to the offices of the employes' association as individuals and not as members of any association.

Pickets surround every hotel in which a strike has been declared and details of police are patrolling the sidewalks around the buildings. So far there has not been the slightest evidence of disorder.

All the hotels are open as usual and the proprietors are confident that they will be able to care for all guests that may arrive. Several proprietors have imported help from outside and say they can secure more whenever they need it.

The members of the Restaurant Keepers' association last night took action that is practically certain to shut up a number of their establishments today. The restaurant keepers decided that they will offer to submit all differences to a board of arbitration, to be composed of seven members, three from the unions, three from the Restaurant Keepers' association and the seventh man to be chosen by the six, the decision of this board to be binding. All employes who will sign an agreement to accept this proposal will be allowed to remain at work and those who refuse will be asked to leave until such time as they shall be willing to accept arbitration. The unions already have refused to accept arbitration, and it is practically certain the offer of the association will be refused again.

She was a Smuggler.

Washington, June 13.—The treasury department has received information that the steamer Vera Cruz, from Cape Verde Islands, which was wrecked off Ocracoke inlet, N. C., last month, with a large number of immigrants on board, was a smuggler. An examination of the wreck shows that the vessel had a false bottom where was secreted a quantity of rum which members of the crew have since been selling near Newbern. Two of the men will be prosecuted for smuggling and selling liquor without a license. The captain of the vessel, who, it is charged, absconded as soon as the crew was taken ashore with about $5,000 belonging to the immigrants, has not yet been arrested.

The Coal Carriers Win.

New York, June 13.—Judge Lacombe, in the United States circuit court Friday, handed down an opinion in the appeal taken by the interstate commerce commission against the coal carrying roads to compel the witnesses to produce certain contracts and answer certain questions in the W. R. Hearst proceedings. These contracts were refused by the witnesses on the advice of counsel. Judge Lacombe sustains the position of the railway companies in every particular except in one instance. President Truesdale, of the Lackawanna, is directed to answer certain questions regarding the details of expense.

Coal Dealers are Fined.

Chicago, June 13.—In an opinion delivered Friday by Judge Horton, members of the Northern Illinois Coal Dealers' association were found guilty of conspiracy in restraint of trade and were fined $500 each. The members of the Retail Coal Dealers' association of Illinois and Wisconsin were denied a motion for a new trial and fined $100 each.

Strike Declared Off.

Kansas City, Mo., June 13.—The differences between the Kansas City Southern Railroad Co. and its mechanics have been adjusted and the strike has been declared off. The men at the shops at Pittsburg were paid at the rate of 31 cents an hour and those at Shreveport 33 cents. The men asked an increase of from two to four cents an hour, which was refused. It is understood, however, that the railroad officials promised an increase at an early date. Most of the strikers have returned to work.

NEW INFORMATION BUREAUS.

George H. Daniels, General Passenger Agent of the New York Central, Booming Resorts.

To boom pleasure and health resorts along the New York Central and associated lines and thereby increase the earnings of his department, George H. Daniels, general passenger agent of the Central, has installed information bureaus throughout the country. He is trying this plan of advertising for the first time.

The function of these bureaus is to convey information concerning the Central and the pleasure resorts, and also to sell tickets to anyone who may wish to buy.

These bureaus have been established in this city, Brooklyn, Syracuse, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Montreal, Toronto, Cleveland, Detroit, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Louisville, St. Louis, Chicago, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Portland, Ore.—From the New York Herald.

Saved His Life.

Whitehall, Ill., June 8th.—Mr. Lon Manley had Bright's Disease and after his home doctor had treated him for sometime he finally told him that he could do nothing more for him, and that he would surely die.

A friend who had heard of what Dodd's Kidney Pills had done in cases of Kidney Trouble, advised Mr. Manley to try a treatment of this remedy.

He did so and everyone was surprised and delighted to see an improvement in a very short time. This improvement gradually kept on as the treatment proceeded, till now Mr. Manley is well. He says:

"The doctor said he had done all he could for me. He gave me up. A friend advised me to take Dodd's Kidney Pills, and in a few weeks I was nearly all right again.

"I am not dead, and can truthfully say that I feel better today than I have for years. Dodd's Kidney Pills are a wonderful remedy and I will always praise them and recommend them to everyone suffering as I did."

Mr. Manley's recovery has caused a profound sensation, as no one ever thought he would recover.

Mrs. Laura L. Barnes, Washington, D. C., Ladies Auxiliary to Burnside Post, No. 4, G. A. R., recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"In diseases that come to women only, as a rule, the doctor is called in, sometimes several doctors, but still matters go from bad to worse; but I have never known of a case of female weakness which was not helped when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was used faithfully. For young women who are subject to headaches, backache, irregular or painful periods, and nervous attacks due to the severe strain on the system by some organic trouble, and for women of advanced years in the most trying time of life, it serves to correct every trouble and restore a healthy action of all organs of the body.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a household reliance in my home, and I would not be without it. In all my experience with this medicine, which covers years, I have found nothing to equal it and always recommend it."—MRS. LAURA L. BARNES, 607 Second St., N. E., Washington, D. C.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands without a peer as a remedy for all the distressing ills of women.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, June 15, 1903.

Editor Press:—

What the French call a "bad quarter of an hour" awaits the President to-day. He has promised to entertain the national committee of the B'nai Birth, the greatest Jewish organization in the world, and listen to their protests against the treatment of their fellow countrymen at Kishenev. That his interview with the prominent Hebrews who will call on him will be embarassing the President fully appreciates. He has consulted Secretary Hay and Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassabor, and he is unable to find grounds which, from a diplomatic standpoint, will warrant anything in the nature of a protest to Russia and yet his entire sympathies are with the jews and if he could he would gladly comply with their wishes and express to Russia the horror with which he has learned of the Kishenev atrocities. Mr. Roosevelt also appreciates that aside from the diplomatic aspect of the situation this country, at least to some extent live in a glass house. Our own record is not without a blot. Only recently a colored man was burned and shot in a western state and lynching, riotings and dynamitings within the past year have been numerous. The federal Government does all in its power to correct these abuses but cannot prevent them and that is the profession of Russia so that whether we believe in Russia's sincerity or not we can hardly affort her by an expression of open incredulity.

Another delicate situation has been precipitated by the recent Servian revolution, accompanied as it by the assassination of the King and Queen and many of the subjects who remained royal to them. Regardless of the merits of the case it is impossible not to be horrified at the frightful violence of the revolutionists and yet there is no diplomatic warrant for an expression of sympathy or regret, expecially as such would be construed as an insult to the new ruler. Under the circumstances, the President will refrain from an expression on the subject as will doubtless the representatives of many other nations.

Advices received from confidential agents of this country in Colombia indicate that there is considerable liklihood of a revolution there as a direct result of the panama canal proposition made by this Government. It is reported that if the Colombian congress fails to promptly ratify the treaty the states of Panama and Cauca, both of which are on the isthmus, will secede from the main country. While it is probable that such secession would be resisted to some extent it is doubtful if the resistance would be successful. The Northern portion of the Andes cuts off all communication between these two states and the rest of the country by land and the Colombian Government has no navy. Moreover the Goverment is bankrupt and could hardly raise the funds with which to carry on a war. The two states named would make a country larger than the republic of Costa Rica and all of the inhabitants favor the construction of the canal. As the two states would be virtualiy divided by the canal zone there would be almost two countries after the canal was built and it is probable that a peaceful and prosperous little republic which could easily meet its necessities with the $250,000 annuity which this country will pay as rental for the canal would result from such a revolution.

ANOTHER FREE DISTRIBUTION.

L. Taggart Received More Samples of Mi-o-na.

The advertisement of the distribution of samples of Mi-o-na, the great dyspepsia cure, published in the PRESS of last month was so successful that the supply was soon exhausted and many people were disappointed. In order to fulfill their offer the proprietors of Mi-o-na have sent several hundred more samples to L. Taggart and any one by cutting out the following coupon and presenting it at his store, can obtain without charge a two day's treatment of this great dyspepsia remedy.

COUPON.

This coupon, if presented at my store, entitles the holder to a two day's' treatment of Mi-o-na, the great dyspepsia cure.

L. TAGGART.

This distribution of samples shows more conclusively than anything else possibly could the great merit of this remedy. If Mi-o-na did not do all that is claimed for it the distribution of samples would be the most foolish way the proprietors could take to advertise it.

Many people prefer to buy a 50 cent box intead of trying a sample, as L Taggart agrees to refund the money if the remedy does not give perfect satisfaction, so that the purchaser runs no risk whatever.

Go early to-day to L. Taggart's store with your coupon, for while the supply of samples is large yet the many calls will soon exhaust it. 16-2t.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Is everywhere recognized as the one remedy that can always be depended upon and that is pleasant to take. It is especially valuable for summer diarrhoea in children and is undoubtedly the means of saving the lives of a great many children each year. For sale by L. Taggart.

Few men have week eyes from looking upon the bright side of life.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm is an antisepetic liniment, and when applied to cuts, bruises and burns, causes them to heal without maturation and much more quickly than by the usual treatment. For sale by L. Taggart.

Some men waste a lot of time in explaining it wasn't their fault.

His Last Hope Realized.
[From the Sentinel, Globe, Mont.]

In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the big race one fine day in April. During his traveling about and afterwards his camping upon his claim, he encountered much bad water, which together with the severe heat, gave him a very severe diarrhoea which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case became bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few minutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was noticed and within an hour the patient was taking his first sound sleep for a fortnight. That one little bottle worked a complete cure, and he cannot help but feel grateful. The season for bowel disorders being at hand suggests this item. For sale by L. Taggart.

Few people get high enough up the ladder of fame to make them dizzy.

Mrs. William Howard Honorary President.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to Baldwin II Commandery, No. 22, Knights Templar, last night held their annual election in the quarters of the Auxiliary, in the William Howard Temple Club House.

The election resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Walter C. Gilmore; First Vice President, Mrs. Mary Van Dyke; Second Vice President, Mrs. William O. Ellis; Secretary, Miss Ella Stevenson; Treasurer, Mrs. Mazie Baker.

Mrs. William Haward, widow of the donor of the splendid Howard Memorial Cathedral, who has been the President of the Auxiliary since it was organized three years ago, but who declined a re-election, has been elected Honorary President for life. This is a deserved honor and distinction, for Mrs. Howard has made a most efficient and painstaking Presiding officer, always looking out for the best interests of the Auxiliary, and, when she made it known that she felt she could not longer give the office the time and attention it required, the members decided to honor her with the honorary presidency for life.

After the election of the Auxiliary enjoyed a fine luncheon. This was the last meeting until September.—Williamsport Bulletin. The honor conferred upon this excellent lady is very gratifying to her Emporium friends, who know and fully appreciate her excellent qualities.

Letter to J. C. Johnson.

Emporium, Pa.

Dear Sir: You can afford the best, and your business experience has shown you that it is also the cheapest. If all men would learn this, they'd save a lot of money.

Devoe Lead and Zinc costs a little more per gallon than mixed paints, but it takes fewer goallons to paint a house, and it wears longer. It is the cheapest paint in the world.

Mr. Frank A. Morse, druggist of West Rutland, Vt., writes:

I ordered 15 gallons of your paint, thinking, from experience with mixed paints, that it would require that amount to cover my house. I used only 8 gallon.

Mr. M. Austin Becher, of Winthrop, Mass., bought eleven gallons, he only used six.

Our agent at Morrisville, N. Y., Mr. N. Dexter, writes:

On every job I have sold, Devoe Lead and Zinc has given good satisfaction and has taken a less quantity than expected.

We could make this letter a hundred times as long with such examples.

Yours truly,

If you have any trouble with your stomach why not take these Tablets and get well? For sale by L. Taggart.

Many of the so-called gems of thought are nothing but paste.

Worst of all Experiences.

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, Decatur, Ala. "For three years." she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I'm completely recovered." For Liver, Kidney, Stomach and Bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. It's guaranteed by L. Taggart, Druggist.

Orthodoxy on one side of the fence is heresy on the other side.

FROM "PHYLLIS ISLE.'

Lapt in sunshine is the gleaming
Yellow beauty of the sand,
Every new tide sends it streaming
Up the edges of my land,
And I welcome it, as, hounded
Through the thickets of the sea,
It comes, delicately rounded,
Climbing up the banks to me

I remember where the thunder
Of the surges rolls afar—
Where you see yon circling wonder
Of white sea-gulls on the bar,
Rose the fairest of fair islands,
With its fretted miles of coast,
Whispering coves, and breezy highlands,
Chanting what my soul loved most.

Down the white keys musically
Ran the fingers of the tide,
And the woodland's inmost alley
Caught the echoes and replied.
All the island—far and lonely,
Until Phyllis made it smile—
Chanting Phyllis; and her only:
Hence I called it Phyllis Isle.

Named it Phyllis, and the amber-
Shining waters, evermore,
As they ran in sport to clamber
Up the pebbles on the shore,
And the wild sea-gulls, careening
On the forelands, saw it go,
And the hemlocks, long and leaning,
Sighed it to the waves below.

But the Death-king rode dividing
His black squadrons for assault,
And the clangor of their riding
Reach the high and heavenly vault,
And the awful thunder rumbled
Through the blackness of the shore,
Till the promontories crumbled
And the island was no more.

Nothing of those days remaining
In the corridors of mind,
Save the passionate complaining
Of the wave and of the wind—
Save a voice remote and yearning
From the hollows of the sea,
As the waste of sand returning
Brings my island home to me.

CHAPTER I.

The major commanding looked up from the morning report and surveyed the post adjutant with something of perturbation, if not annoyance, in his grim, gray eyes. For the fourth time that week had Lieutenant Field requested permission to be absent for several hours. The major knew just why the junior wished to go and where. The major knew just why he wished him not to go, but saw fit to name almost any other than the real reason, when, with a certain awkward hesitancy, he began:

"W—ell, is the post return ready?"

"It will be, sir, in abundant time," was the prompt reply.

"You know they sent it back for correction last month," hazarded the commander.

"And you know, sir, the error was not mine," was the instant rejoinder, so quick, sharp and positive as to carry it at a bound to the verge of disrespect, and the keen, blue eyes of the young soldier gazed, frank and fearless, into the heavily ambushed gray eyes of the veteran in the chair. It made the latter wince and stir uneasily.

"If there's anything I hate, Field, it is to have my papers sent back by some whipsnapper of a clerk, inviting attention to this or that error, and I expect my adjutant to see to it that they don't."

"Your adjutant does see to it, sir. I'm willing to bet a month's pay fewer errors have been found in the papers of Fort Frayne than any post in the Department of the Platte. Gen. Williams told you as much when you were in Omaha."

The major fairly wriggled in his cane-bottomed whirligig. What young Field said was true, and the major knew it. He knew, moreover, there wasn't a more painstaking post adjutant from the Missouri to the mountains. He knew their monthly reports—"returns" as the regulations called them—were referred to by a model adjutant general as model papers. He knew that it was due to young Field's care and attention, and he knew he thought all the world of that young gentleman. It was just because he thought so much of him he was beginning to feel that it was high time to put a stop to something that was going on. But, it was a delicate matter; a woman was the matter; and he hadn't the moral courage to go at it the straightforward way. He "whip sawed" again. Thrumming on the desk with his lean, bony fingers, he began:

"If I let my adjutant out so much, what's to prevent other youngsters asking similar indulgence?"

The answer came like the crack of a whip:

"Nothing, sir; and far better would it be for everybody concerned if they spent more hours in the saddle and fewer at the store."

This was too much for one listener in the room. With something like the sound of a suppressed sneeze, a tall, long-legged captain of cavalry started up from his chair, an outspread newspaper still full-stretched between him and the desk of the commander, and, thus hidden as to his face, sidled sniggering off to the nearest window. Young Field had fearlessly, if not almost impudently, hit the nail on the head, and metaphorically rapped the thrumming fingers of his superior officer. Some commanders would have raged and sent the daring youngster right about in arrest. Major Webb knew just what Field referred to—knew that the fascinations of pool, "pitch" and poker held just about half his commissioned force at all "off duty" hours of the day or night hanging about the officers' club room at the post trader's; knew, moreover, that while the adjutant never wasted a moment over cards or billiards, he, the post commander, had many a time taken a hand or a cue and wagered his dollars against those of his devoted associates. They all loved him. There wasn't a "mean streak in his whole system," said every soldier at Fort Frayne. He had a capital record as a volunteer—a colonel and, later, brigade commander in the great war. He had the brevet of brigadier general of volunteers, but repudiated any title beyond that of his actual rank in the regulars. He was that rara avis—a bachelor field officer, and a bird to be brought down if feminine witchery could do it. He was truthful, generous, high-minded, brave—a man who preferred to be of and with his subordinates rather than above them—to rule through affection and regard rather than the stern standard of command. He was gentle and courteous alike to officers and the rank and file, though he feared no man on the face of the globe. He was awkward, bungling and overwhelmingly, lavishly, kind and thoughtful in his dealings with the womenfolk of the garrison, for he stood in awe of the entire sisterhood. He could ride like a centaur; he couldnt' dance worth a cent. He could snuff a candle with his Colt at 20 paces and couldn't hit a croquet ball to save his soul. His deep-set gray eyes, under their tangled thatch of brown, gazed straight into the face of every man on the Platte, soldier, cowboy, Indian or halfbreed, but fell abashed if a laundress looked at him. Billy Ray, captain of the sorrel troop and the best light rider in Wyoming, was the only man he ever allowed to straddle a beautiful thoroughbred mare he had bought in Kentucky, but, bad hands or good, there wasn't a riding woman at Frayne who hadn't backed Lorna time and again, because to a woman the major simply couldn't say no.

And though his favorite comrades at the post were captains like Blake and Billy Ray, married men both whose wives he worshipped, the major's rugged heart went out especially to Beverly Field, his boy adjutant, a lad who came to them from West Point only three years before the autumn this story opens, a young fellow full of high health, pluck and principle—a tip top soldier, said everybody from the start, until, as Gregg and other growlers began to declaim, the major completely spoiled him. Here, three years only out of military leadingstrings, he was a young cock of the walk, "too dam independent for a second lieutenant," said the officers' club element of the command, men like Gregg, Wilkins, Crane and a few of their following. "The keenest young trooper in the regiment," said Blake and Ray, who were among its keenest captains, and never a cloud had sailed across the serene sky of their friendship and esteem until this glorious September of 188— when Nanette Flower, a brilliant, beautiful brunette came a visitor to old Fort Frayne.

And it was on her account the major would, could he have seen the way, said no to the adjutant's request to be absent again. On her account and that of one other, for that request meant another long morning in saddle with Miss Flower, another long morning in which "the sweetest girl in the garrison," so said they all, would go about her daily duties with an aching heart. There was no woman at Fort Frayne who did not know that Esther Dade thought all the world of Beverly Field. There was one man who apparently had no inkling of it—Beverly Field himself.

She was the only daughter of a veteran officer, a captain of infantry, who at the age of 50, after having held a high command in the volunteers during the civil war, was still meekly doing duty as a company officer of regulars nearly two decades after. She had been carefully reared by a most loving and thoughtful mother, even in the crude old days of the army, when its fighting force was scattered in small detachments all over the wide frontier, and men, and women, too, lived on soldier rations, eked out with game, and dwelt in tents or ramshackle, one-storied huts, "built by the labor of troops." At 12 she had been placed at school in the far east, while her father enjoyed a two years' tour on recruiting service, and there, under the care of a noble woman who taught her girls to be women indeed—not vapid votaries of pleasure and fashion, Esther spent five useful years, coming back to her fond father's soldier roof a winsome picture of girlish health and grace and comeliness—a girl who could ride, walk and run if need be, who could bake and cook, mend and sew, cut, fashion and make her own simple wardrobe; who knew algebra, geometry and "trig" quite as well as, and history, geography and grammar far better than, most of the young West Pointers; a girl who spoke her own tongue with accuracy and was not badly versed in French; a girl who performed fairly well on the piano and guitar, but who sang full-throated, rejoiceful, exulting like the lark—the soulful music that brought delight to her ageing father, half crippled by the wounds of the war days, and to the mother who so devotedly loved and carefully planned for her. Within a month from her graduation at Madame Piatt's she had become the darling of Fort Frayne, the pet of many a household, the treasure of her own. With other young gallants of the garrison, Beverly Field had had been prompt to call, prompt to be her escort when dance or drive, ride or picnic was planned in her honor, especially the ride, for Mr. Adjutant Field loved the saddle, the open prairie or the bold, undulating bluffs. But Field was the busiest man at the post. Other youngsters, troop or company subalterns, had far more time at their disposal, and begged for rides and dances, strolls and sports which the post adjutant was generally far too busy to claim. It was Esther who brought lawn tennis to Frayne and found eager pupils of both sexes, but Field had been the first to meet and welcome her; had been for a brief time at the start her most constant cavalier. Then, as others began to feel the charm of her frank, cordial, joyous manner, and learned to read the beauty that beamed in her clear, truthful eyes and winsome, yet not beautiful face, they became assiduous in turn—two of them almost distressingly so—and she could not wound them by refusals. Then came a fortnight in which her father sat as a member of a court-martial at old Fort Laramie, where were the band, headquarters and four troops of the ——th, and Captain and Mrs. Freeman who were there stationed, begged that Mrs. Dade and Esther should come and visit them during the session of the court. There would be all manner of army gaities and a crowd of outside officers, and, as luck would have it, Mr. Field was ordered thither as a witness in two important cases. The captain and his good wife went by stage; Esther and Beverly rode every inch of the way in saddle, camping over night with their joyous little party at LaBonte. Then came a lovely week at Laramie, during which Mr. Field had but little to do but devote himself to, and dance with, Esther, and when his final testimony was given and he returned to his station, and not until then, Esther Dade discovered that life had little interest or joy without him; but Field rode back unknowing, and met at Frayne, before Esther Dade's return, a girl who had come almost unheralded, making the journey over the Medicine Bow from Rock Springs on the Union Pacific in the comfortable carriage of old Bill Hay, the post trader, escorted by that redoubtable woman, Mrs. Bill Hay, and within the week of her arrival Nanette Flower was the toast of the bachelor's mess, the talk of every household at Fort Frayne.

Hay, the trader, had prospered in his long years on the frontier, first as trader among the Sioux, later as sutler, and finally, when congress abolished that title, substituting therefor the euphemism, without material clog upon the perquisites, as post trader at Fort Frayne. No one knew how much he was worth, for while apparently a most open-hearted, wholesouled fellow, Hay was reticence itself when his fortunes or his family were matters of question or comment. He had long been married, and Mrs. Hay, when at the post, was a social sphinx—kind-hearted, charitable, lavish to the soldiers' wives and children, and devotion itself to the families of the officers when sickness and trouble came, as come in the old days they often did. It was she who took poor Ned Robinson's young widow and infant all the way to Cheyenne when the Sioux butchered the luckless little hunting party down by Laramie Peak. It was she who nursed Capt. Forrest's wife and daughter through ten weeks of typhoid, and, with her own means, sent them to the seashore, while the husband and father was far up on the Yellowstone, cut off from all communication in the big campaign of '76. It was she who built the little chapel and decked and dressed it for Easter and Christmas, despite the fact that she herself had been baptized in the Roman Catholic faith. It was she who went at once to every woman in the garrison whose husband was ordered out on scout or campaign, proffering aid and comfort, despite the fact long whispered in the garrisons of the Platte country, that in the old, old days she had far more friends among the red men than the white. That could well be, because in those days white men were few and far between. Everyone had heard the story that it was through her the news of the massacre at Fort Phil Kearney was made known to the post commander, for she could speak the dialects of both the Arapahoe and the Sioux, and she had the sign language of the plains veritably at her fingers' ends. There were not lacking those who declared that Indian blood ran in her veins—that her mother was an Ogallala squaw and her father a French Canadian fur trapper, a story to which her raven black hair and brows, her deep, dark eyes and somewhat swarthy complexion gave no little color. But, long years before, Bill Hay had taken her east, where he had relatives, and where she studied under excellent masters, returning to him summer after summer with more and more of refinement in manner, and so much of style and fashion in dress that her annual advent had come to be looked upon as quite the event of the season, even by women of the social position of Mrs. Ray and Mrs. Blake, the recognized leaders among the young matrons of the ——th cavalry, and by gentle Mrs. Dade, to whom every one looked up in respect—almost in reverence. Despite the mystery about her antecedents there was every reason why Mrs. Hay should be held in esteem and affection. Bill Hay himself was a diamond in the rough—square, steady, uncompromising, generous and hospitable; his great pride and glory was his wife; his one great sorrow that their only child had died almost in infancy. His solecisms in syntax and society were many. He was given at times to profanity, and at others, when madame was away, to draw poker; but officers and men alike proclaimed him a man of mettle and never hesitated to go to him when in financial straits, sure of unusurious aid. But even had this not been the case, the popularity of his better half would have carried him through, for there was hardly a woman at Frayne to speak of her except in terms of genuine respect. Mrs. Hay was truth-telling, sympathetic, a peacemaker, a resolute opponent of gossip and scandal of every kind, a woman who minded her own business and was only mildly insistent that others should do likewise. She declined all overtures leading to confidences of her past, and demanded recognition only upon the standard of the present, which was unimpeachable.

All the same it came something like a shock to society at Frayne that, when she appeared at the post this beautiful autumn of 188—, nearly three months later than the usual time, she should be accompanied by this brilliant and beautiful girl of whom no one of their number had previously heard, and whom she smilingly, confidently presented as, "My niece, Miss Flower."

CHAPTER II.

The major sought to block that morning ride in vain. The impetuous will of the younger soldier prevailed, as he might have known it would, and from the rear gallery of his quarters, with his strong field-glass, Maj. Webb watched the pair fording the Platte far up beyond Pyramid Butte. "Going over to that damned Sioux village again," he swore between his set teeth. "That makes the third time she's headed him there this week," and with strange annoyance at heart he turned away to seek comfort in council with his stanch henchman, Capt. Ray, when the orderly came bounding up the steps with a telegraphic dispatch which the major opened, read, turned a shade grayer and whistled low.

FROM THE REAR GALLERY OF HIS QUARTERS, MAJOR WEBB WATCHED THE PAIR.

"My compliments to Capts. Blake and Ray," said he, to the silent young soldier, standing attention at the door step, "and say I should be glad to see them here at once."

Story of a Royal Visit.

Among old records of royal visits to the Emerald Island there is a curious story of that paid in 1790 by the then duke of Clarence, who became afterward William IV., to the neighborhood of Cork. He was at that time a sub-lieutenant in the navy, and the ship on which he served touched at Queenstown, then known as Cove. While there his royal highness stayed for some days with a family named Penrose, the head of which was an esteemed gentleman and Quaker. He did his best to entertain the duke in a manner befitting his rank and station, and among other assiduities the old Quaker always sat up to receive him on his return home from the convivial parties which the neighborhood 'squires were only too glad to offer him. The duke of Clarence, as was the fashion at that time, had a liking for old port, and was not squeamish at the quantity consumed. As a result he several times returned to his host's house in a state which bordered on elation. It is recorded that his host used the gentlest reproof toward him in these words: "Friend William, thou art late again to-night, and I fear me thou art not too sober. If thou dost not amend I shall have to write to thy father, friend George, at Windsor."

History of Pope's Topaz.

On the occasion of the pope's pontifical jubilee, says the New York Mail and Express, a committee at Naples presided over by Archbishop Giustino Adami presented his holiness with the largest topaz in the world. The gem has a curious history. It was found in the mines of Geraes, in Brazil, and was originally the property of the Neapolitan Bourbons. When they were driven out of Naples the stone passed into the hands of the Cariello family, one of whom, Prof. Andrea Cariello, undertook to engrave on it a cameo of "Christ Breaking the Eucharistic Bread."

He offered the topaz to the count of Caserta, the actual head of the Neapolitan Bourbons, but the prince refused to accept it, and asked that it be presented to the pope at the jubilee. The topaz is one of the largest engraved gems in the world and ranks after the great French cameo and the Vienese cameos.

TESTED BY TIME.

Mrs. Robert Broderick who resides at 1915 Virginia St., in San Antonio, Texas, tells an experience that will interest every reader. It shows as well that Doan's cures are lasting cures. She says:—"Up to the early part of the year 1902 I had been a sufferer from kidney troubles for many years. The pain in my back became worse and worse until it was a daily burden that interfered with every duty. I was much afflicted with headaches and dizzy spells and was unable to rest well nights. In May 1902 after using Doan's Kidney Pills I made a statement for publication declaring that they had entirely relieved me of the pain in my back. I have since then had a year's time in which to study the effects of the medicine, and while I have had slight touches of the trouble since, the use of the pills has always driven away all signs of the disorder and I have become convinced of the fact that the first treatment was practically permanent in its effects, and I know that a box of Doan's Kidney Pills kept on hand is a sufficient guarantee against any suffering from the kidneys or back. I should advise every sufferer to take Doan's Kidney Pills, and I know that they will be surprised and pleased with the result."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mrs. Broderick will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists, price 50 cents per box.

WOMAN PRESS FEEDER.

Annie Peglow Operates Two Big Cylinders in a St. Louis Office and Belongs to Union.

Annie Peglow, of No. 3016 Missouri avenue, claims to be the only woman pressman in the United States, says the St. Louis Republic.

For five years she has operated two cylinder presses at 314 North Third street. The firm considers her one of its best workmen.

Miss Peglow entered the employ of the company 20 years ago as a press feeder. At that time women press feeders were a novelty, but since many girls have entered that branch of the printing business, and now some of the larger printing companies hire hundreds of women press feeders.

Running a cylinder press was never thought of as woman's work until it occurred to Miss Peglow. None has tried it since. She was an enthusiastic printer and she determined to learn all about the business.

"I just 'nosed' about until I 'caught on'; then I began to try and convince my boss that I was as good a pressman as any of the men and finally I got a trial, which proved successful, and here I am," is the way she explains her presence before her two big machines.

She belongs to Pressmen's Union No. 6. In order to allow her to enter the union the international body of pressmen allowed their constitution to be amended so as to admit her. It caused quite a little discussion at the time.

Miss Peglow does not attend the meetings of her local, however. She leaves the transaction of all union business to the men and abides by their decisions. She does not attend the meetings because she is the only woman member and her presence there alone, she thinks, would appear too bold.

Every morning at 8 o'clock she appears before her machines, dons her blue calico dress, which is made of cloth similar to the goods used in jumpers and overalls, and superintends the turning out of the large printed sheets.

She excels in color work which embraces two, three or more colors, and is considered especially good in dainty work, which she is always consulted about by the heads of the firm.

Although elbowing men all day long in pursuit of her duties, Miss Peglow says she cannot agree with Mrs. Claxon and her ideas on the "Ideal Wife" or the deterioriation of chivalry.

"I do not think," said she, "because a woman works for a living that it detracts a particle from her womanly graces; neither do I think that a woman that works is not as good a housewife as the girl who spends all her time at home. I think to get out in the world and work serves to broaden one's ideas, and I am sure some of the workers appreciate their homes a great deal more from the fact that they are at home so little. To work shows one how fortunate the woman who does not have to work really is.

"As to men losing their chivalry—I don't believe it; at least, I have not experienced it, and I meet a great many men in my business every day."

TO KEEP PRETTY HANDS.

If You Pay Attention to This Bunch of "Don'ts" You Can Have Them the Year Around.

Don't polish nails too highly; they should have only a natural gloss. Too much polishing makes them tender.

Don't polish nails without first rubbing on a little rose-tinted paste. Use the palm of the hand to polish.

Don't cut nails without first holding them in warm water or sweet oil.

Don't cut them too often, or they will become thick and ugly.

Don't cut the cuticle or any part of the flesh around the nails.

Don't cut the nails in points, but let them be carefully arched.

Don't use a file or emery paper on the flat surface of the nail, but only on the edge, to level it.

Don't dry the hands with a towel, but with a silk handkerchief, which absorbs moisture more readily.

Don't wear gloves every night, or the hands will become yellow. Occasional use of gloves, however, is advisable.

Don't use ammonia in the bath without applying a cold cream afterward.

Don't let the hands hang down, or the blood will fill and stretch the veins.

Don't forget that warm feet have much to do with white hands. When the feet are habitually cold, the hands are always red or blue.—Washington Star.

CHARMING OLD LADY.

The Original of Charles Dickens' "Little Dorrit" Recalls Novelist's Happy Youth.

Who that has read Dickens has not loved and admired the "child of the Marshalsea," the sweet and charming Little Dorrit? All of us have loved her as a child of a bygone age, yet still "Little Dorrit" is amongst us, hearty and well. Mrs. Mary Ann Cooper, of Southgate, now in her ninetieth year, is the original of Dickens' famous character, although the life depicted in the book cannot be said to correspond with her own, for Mrs. Cooper herself was never in that dreary debtors' prison. She was born on November 27, 1813, in Hatton Garden, her father being a well-to-do farmer named Mitton, who also had a place at Sunbury, at which Dickens' in his early youth was a frequent visitor. The bed

MRS. MARY COOPER.
(Charming Old Lady Who Is the Original of Dickens' "Little Dorritt.")

"Little Dorrit" now sleeps on at Southgate is one Charles Dickens slept on there.

A few years later the Mittons were living in Johnson street, Clarendon square, and a house directly opposite was occupied by the Dickens family. There began the acquaintance with "My Charles," as the old lady calls the novelist. Mrs. Cooper's brother was a school fellow of Dickens, and would assist him in his literary work by correcting manuscripts, as in later years he assisted him in law matters. Between Mary Ann and Charles the closest friendship—almost ripening into something more—sprang up, and the old lady is never tired of telling their adventures and misadventures in the heyday of youth—how they would call at a little place in the Hampstead road, where Cecil Rhodes' grandfather, "a grumpy old man," would serve them with milk; how after church he would take her for a walk to "New St. Pancras church" for the special purpose of staring at and taking off the pompous beadle who used to strut about its precincts—Dickens imitating his walk and bearing, to the delight of others, but to the great indignation of this prototype of Bumble; how Dickens was out walking when he met a procession of school girls from a sedate boarding school, headed by a particularly prim and severe principal, and how, seeing an old apple woman, Dickens bought up her stock and slyly slipped two apples into the hands of each girl and stood by when the horrified principal discovered her "very select" establishment munching apples in the street.

Once when staying at Mrs. Cooper's home at Sunbury, Charles went out, and borrowing some old clothes, disguised himself as a farm laborer in search of work, and so clever was his makeup that he completely deceived the shrewd farmer, who, not having work for him, was prevailed upon to allow him a place and some straw in one of his barns, where he might pass the night.

Dickens had a habit of giving nicknames to his friends and relatives, as he had a way of giving literary names to his sons; his name for Miss Mitton was Little Dorrit. "Why did he give you this name?" I asked, and the old lady said: "I really cannot say. It seemed to come; at any rate, I only recollect that somehow I was always 'Dorrit' with Charles."

"And how did you come to get into the Marshalsea, and be famous ever afterwards?"

"Well, I can't exactly say, but as I have told you, Charles and I were, I think I may say, very fond of one another, and one day at home he told us: 'The next book I write I shall put you in it, and I shall call it "Little Dorrit." Thus his next work was named."

Now, in her ninetieth year, Mrs. Cooper is lively and quick, although she has had some serious accidents in the course of her long life. Once she was thrown from her horse and dragged for three-quarters of a mile. She has suffered, too, from rheumatism, and is rather deaf. Mrs. Cooper has been a widow for over 20 years, and now lives alone—in a little room crammed with flowers and fancies, and a chimney corner which is a perfect gallery of portraits, with a notable one, of course, of "My Charles." Over the mantelpiece is one of those curious old "samplers" which our grandmothers used so laboriously to produce, made by "Mary Ann Mitton, aged nine, February, 1822."—London Black and White.

Recipe for Indian Muffins.

Indian muffins are most delicious when eaten hot and fresh with butter. This recipe for them is simple: Pour boiling water on a quart of corn meal, stir it thoroughly till it forms a thick batter. When it has cooled a little, add a tablespoonful of yeast, two well-beaten eggs and a tablespoonful of salt. Set the dough to rise in a warm place for two hours, then butter some square tin pans and fill them two-thirds full with dough and bake in a quick oven.

WESTERN CANADA'S IMMIGRATION.

Rapid Settlement of the Wheat Fields Lying North of the 49th Parallel.

[From the Chicago Record-Herald.]

"Canada has anticipated a very heavy immigration this year, and she now has figures to show that she is actually getting it in a way to meet all her expectations. In the first four months of this year the doors of the Dominion opened to 40,672 persons, according to a report prepared by the committee on agriculture and colonization of the Canadian parliament. This is almost twice as large as the immigration in the corresponding months last year, and fully three times as large as in 1901, the respective figures being 22,482 and 13,393.

"Most of these newcomers have been attracted by the wheat lands of the Northwest territories. They have moved direct from Winnipeg and they have turned that city into a great camp, in which they have been fitting themselves out for the last stage of their adventure for new homes.

"Of the immigration of this spring a little over a third has come from Great Britain, the figure being 16,457. This is three times as large as the British immigration of the corresponding months of the preceding year, and it is within 2,500 of the number of immigrants that the United States attracted from Great Britain and Ireland in the same period this spring. As to the remainder of the immigration into Canada, 13,770 settlers came from the United States, a 50 per cent. increase over the preceding year, and 10,445 from Continental Europe, a 40 per cent. increase.

"These 40,672 immigrants into Canada may appear trifling in comparison with the 297,070 persons who entered the United States in the same period, but they are proportionately more important to the country. Canada's population is one-fifteenth of ours, but her immigration is now two-fifteenths as large as ours. It is worth remembering also that Canada's immigrants are almost entirely of Anglo-Saxon and Teutonic races, while our immigration is now two-thirds made up of Romance and Slav elements.

"Speculation is natural as to the future of Canada in her relations to the United States when her Northwest territories are filled up, but the one absolutely certain fact of the near future is that the United States is to have a great competitor in the grain markets of the world."

The above editorial article taken from the columns of the Chicago Record-Herald of May2 26th shows the condition of the Canadian Immigration, which as pointed out, has had a constant growth—a marvelously increasing growth—for the past six or seven years, until this year, it is confidently assumed the increase to Canada's population, by way of Immigration, will exceed 100,000. This is accounted for by the great agricultural resources which abound there. It is no fairy tale, but the matter-of-fact experience of the tens of thousands bear ample testimony to the wealth and riches in store for all who choose to accept of the opportunities offered.

Those who wish to learn more of the country can secure illustrated atlases, pamphlets, etc., giving full and reliable data issued under Government authority, by applying to any of the authorized agents of the Canadian Government. GRAIN GROWING. MIXED FARMING.

THE REASON WHY more wheat is grown in Western Canada in a few short months, is because vegetation grows in proportion to the sunlight. The more northerly the latitude in which grain will come to perfection, the better it is. Therefore 22 pounds per bushel is as fair a standard as 60 pounds in the East.

DOCTOR ADVOCATED OPERATION--- PE-RU-NA MADE KNIFE UNNECESSARY.

CATARRH is a very frequent cause of that class of diseases popularly known as female weakness.

Catarrh of the pelvic organs produces such a variety of disagreeable and irritating symptoms that many people—in fact, the majority of people—have no idea that they are caused by catarrh.

If all the women who are suffering with any form of female weakness would write to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio, and give him a complete description of their symptoms and the peculiarities of their troubles, he will immediately reply with complete directions for treatment, free of charge.

Mrs. Eva Bartho, 133 East 12th street, N. Y. City, N. Y., writes: "I suffered for three years with leucorrhea and ulceration of the womb. The doctor advocated an operation which I dreaded very much, and strongly objected to go under it. Now I am a changed woman. Peruna cured me; it took nine bottles, but I felt so much improved I kept taking it, as I dreaded an operation so much. I am today in perfect health and have not felt so well for fifteen years."—Mrs. Eva Bartho.

MRS. EVA BARTHO.

Miss Maud Steinbach, 1399 12th St., Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

"Last winter I felt sick most of the time, was irregular and suffered from nervous exhaustion and severe bearing down pains. I had so frequently heard of Peruna and what wonderful cures it performed so I sent for a bottle and in four weeks my health and strength were entirely restored to me."—Miss Maud Steinbach.

Every where the women are using Peruna and praising it. Peruna is not a palliative simply; it cures by removing the cause of female disease.

Dr. Hartman has probably cured more women of female ailments than any other living physician. He makes these cures simply by using and recommending Peruna.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.
